Amos Board, of Hardinsburg, tells us that the Rev. J. W. Hughes is building one of the best roads in the county from Kingswood to Harned. He said he is making the road forty feet wide, cutting out the trees, stumps and rocks; rounding it up in the middle with a good grade and ditches to clear the water, with metal in the center a perfect road in every way. Brother Hughes is superintending the work himself, and with the help of his neighbors he expects to have a regular boulevard from Kingswood to Harned. Good for Brother Hughes. He has said from the beginning that he intended to have a good road from his place to the station if he had to do the work himself. Brother Hughes is not only a good roads man but a good school man, a fine teacher, an honest preacher and a high class man in every way. He has done a splendid work for Kingswood and the surrounding community. The News wishes him continued success in all his undertakings.

The barbecue given by the A. W. of A. at Bandy's Grove near Webster last Saturday, was in every way a success. The management deserves special praise for the way it was conducted. The grove is shady and beautiful with a never-failing spring nearby, a running brook and a lovely retreat which made it an ideal place for a day's pleasure for young and old. A string band furnished excellent music. Refreshments were plenty, a good dinner and ice water furnished all day for the crowd of handsome men, women and children. The Woodmen intend to have a special occasion like this annually for the enjoyment of their families and friends. Conveyances met each train to take the people to the grounds without charge.

The Democratic State Central Committee met in Louisville last week and called a delegate convention for August 15, to draft a State platform. Delegates are to be selected in mass conventions held in every county. Rufus H. Vansant, of Ashland, was named as chairman of the campaign committee, and Judge Jere A. Sullivan, of Richmond, was named as vice-chairman. Many prominent Democrats from all over the state were present full of enthusiasm for the ticket.

Jas. S. Tinius, of Holt, came home from Hardinsburg Monday very happy. After working and pleading for more than two years, he got the court's permission to go ahead with the bridges between Cloverport and Holt that have been out of commission for all this time. Some of the largest tax-payers in the county live in Holt's Bottom, and why they have been kept out of a road for over two years is hard to understand.

Dr. J. H. Hart, of McDaniels, was at the barbecue at Bandy's Grove Saturday. He says he is not a candidate for the Legislature and that he only needs one vote now to make him happy.

What do you think of this weather for July? All our touch-memots were drooped to the ground yesterday morning as though Jack Frost had brushed them in the night.

LITTLE STORIES WRITTEN

While The Press Thunders

BY LOUISE

At The Camp Meeting.

Friday night we went to the camp meeting at Irvington. So much has been well written in advance of this meeting by our correspondent, Miss Eva McGlothlin, that our readers already must have an idea what good times are going on at the busy railroad center. But like everything else that's good, the best always comes last.

Three services are being held under the tent daily, besides cottage prayer meetings every afternoon. Irvington has now the best opportunity in her history to make good—no lot sale nor improvement club has ever offered anything that equals it. With two evangelists, Rev. Walt Holcomb and Rev. Mr. Treadway, and the home ministers, R. S. Adair, C. R. Shepherd, L. K. May and R. H. Morefield, every man, woman and child in and around the little city can get a clear understanding of the old, old story. The music is splendid with Mrs. Nora Board leading. Mrs. Wimp and Mrs. Piggott pianists. Fifty singers are in the choir.

The most impressive part of the service Friday night was to see the large number of men interested, asking others to take the step on the right side. Fifteen men—men with strong minds and brave hearts—responded at this service and word comes that thirty men were converted Sunday afternoon. The railroad men, the farmers and the old citizens, the young men and the business men are attending regularly.

A unique feature of the services are "the padding-pans" handed at every service by the following: J. B. Herndon, A. D. Pulliam, Sam Dowell, Robert Bell, C. S. Neafus and W. J. Piggott. The meeting will cost Irvington $500, which is less than a dollar from each inhabitant.

The tent is pitched on the lot belonging to E. H. Ashcraft & Brother, and is a very convenient place. Its seating capacity is 800 and nearly every night it is filled. The tent is well-lighted.

The happiest persons attending the meetings are the mothers whose sons and daughters are with them. 'Tis a sweet sight to see them together, listening with eagerness and taking hold of that which is free to all.

There is nothing so wonderful in this wide, wide world as God's love. Those who know it are not poor indeed. Irvington, not unlike other towns, needs the old-fashioned, plain everyday gospel. Cloverport nor Hardinsburg and no other place can get so much of it that no more is needed. May the camp meeting be refreshing and a permanent blessing to Irvington. If there is a man, a boy or a girl, who leaves the old tent without answering the call of the All-Wise-Love, may they hear again in the still hours of the night, that pleading, gentle voice and answer before 'tis too late!

Talking about base-ball games, said Beavin Tucker, Monday, "One of my boy friends laughed so hard at his mother when she was saying something about the game the other day that it made his head hurt and I laughed all the way home". Most mothers are for base ball every day except Sunday, but for some reason this mother is completely turned against it. Her son is devoted to her, but he and Beavin had a big laugh when she said: "My boy, if I could, I would burn up all the balls and ballots." The boys have been teasing the mother for calling a bat a ballot, but she has such a good disposition and loves her boy so, she doesn't mind.

Notice To Tobinsport.

A Tobinsport Fan had an anonymous letter in the Cannelton Telephone addressed to my father on the subject of our not publishing all the Sunday base-ball games. The report of the News game recently published in the News was done so during my absence. Now, boys, if you want to make any criticisms about the News not publishing Sunday games, make them to Louise. Come over and fight them out. I can turn the other cheek. If you get too rough, I will call Chad, Paul and Mr. Weatherholt. They are the biggest fellows around here. If the Tobinsport team or any other team will send us reports of games, played any day except Sunday, plainly written with name signed, I will see that they are published.

All the good qualities of Ely's Cream Balm, solid, are found in Liquid Cream Balm, which is intended for use in atomizers. That it is a wonderful remedy for Nasal Catarrh is proved by an ever-increasing mass of testimony. It does not dry out nor rasp the tender air-passages. It allays the inflammation and goes straight to the root of the disease. Obstinate old cases have yielded in a few weeks. ONE MAN WILL GIVE $500.00

For Pike From Irvington To Custer--Preparations Being Made For Good Roads Convention Next Month

OUT-OF-TOWN SPEAKERS

Irvington, Ky., July 25 (Special)—

As we stand to-day just within the doorway of this twentieth century we find new demands made upon our stalwart men, higher standards raised, and he who wishes to see success must meet these demands or else stand aside and give place to the other man.

The farmer who says he will give $500. toward constructing the pike from Irvington to Custer—and one has said it and is ready to make good the promise, is a man up to the standard. He it is, who having stood a tip toe on the heights and looking down the vistas of the coming years, has seen with the construction of this modern roadway, the value of his farm doubled, the ease with which he gets his farm products to market makes living ten miles from town a pleasure, yea, he has seen the town man made truly to yearn for his meadow lands, his waving corn fields, his fields of golden grain, his babbling brook in which stands under the shade sleek cattle waiting the time when this autocrat of the farm shall pronounce them ready for market. Men of this Fourth Magisterial District, this pike is no myth, no fable; it is going to be built on the co-operative plan. Already we are hearing from farmers along the way pledging to give money and furnish help and teams for from one to three days.

Come to the good roads convention at Irvington August 12 prepared to say how much money you will give, how many days you will furnish a man, wagon and team. Farmers, doctors, lawyers, ministers, merchants, and men from every walk of life; be it humble or what not arouse your neighbors' interest in this movement and now that the fight is on lay not down your weapon until we see the completion of this grand highway. Prominent men throughout our state, men who have in their own section been promoters of such movements as ours, will be here to address the Convention. Come and hear them tell how it may be done. Mr. A. M. Giltner, Eminence, Ky., is one of our invited guests. Come and hear his experience. Mr. R. E. Woods, the Louisville Post Master expects to come down for the Convention to join heart and hand with the citizens of his native County in their effort to reach this higher Standard.

There will be a bountiful dinner served, plenty of ice water, good music, fine speeches and plenty of good cheer. Do not fail to be on hand every one within ten miles of this proposed route.

Many Happy Returns

Dear Mr. Babbage:—In a recent issue of the News Louise says you are to have a birthday soon, and indicates that you have had a good many of them. They come pretty close together these days, a good deal closer than they did when we were younger. I wish you many happy returns of the day, but I do wish the newspapers could tell us how to keep them further apart. If we cannot prevent the years from passing over us, we may at least make good use of them as they go, and possibly keep up with the spirit of the age so that we will not grow cross with the world as we grow old.

I have read the announcement of the great barbecue Aug. 10. I do not know that I ever got as much enjoyment out of anything as I did out of the Masons Barbecue last year. I do not suppose it will be possible for me to attend this year, though I would sacrifice a good deal to do it. Last year I met a number of boyhood friends whom I had not seen for nearly forty years. There were the Burdettas, Johnsons, and the Beavins, many of them I had not seen for years. I would like to see the Beavin brothers run the lake
